

Holding You

Ginny Blackmore

(with Stan Walker)

It's no surprise that we ain't in heaven,
We're on the Earth.
But you, you meet me in my darkest cavern,
Can't count what you are worth.

'Cause, baby when the waves crash over me,
Baby, when the skies turn crazy
You're the only one I want next to me, me.

With every passing second, every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
When my ground starts shaking
And my bones start breaking
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
We ain't in a perfect world
But you still bring the stars out
You still freak my heart out,
Oh, oh, oh

With every passing second, every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky, I'm lucky, I'm lucky to be holding you

Holding you
Holding you
Holding you

Thought I would always be alone
Then you, you walked in like a dream
Your smile shone brighter than the sun to me,
Your heart is next to none

'Cause, baby when the waves crash over me,
Baby, when the skies turn crazy
You're the only one I want next to me, me.

With every passing second, every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
When my ground starts shaking
And my bones start breaking

I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
We ain't in a perfect world
But you still bring the stars out
You still freak my heart out,
Oh, oh, oh
With every passing second, every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky, I'm lucky, I'm lucky to be holding you

And I know, I know
What we've got is far greater than a dream
You've become my everything
I know, I know
We ain't perfect but I want you everyday
Could I be that lucky?

With every passing second, every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
When my ground starts shaking
And my bones start breaking
I realize I'm lucky to be holding you
We ain't in a perfect world
But you still bring the stars out
You still freak my heart out,
Oh, oh, oh
With every passing second, every drop of falling rain
I realize I'm lucky, I'm lucky, I'm lucky to be holding you

Baby
Holding you yeah eh
I'm holding you
