

You Invite Me In

Meredith Andrews

I've been searching
Wandering and hurting
Ashamed of the shape I'm in
Afraid You'll see who I really am
But, You invite me in
Doesn't matter where I've been
Your arms are open wide
There's nothing left to hide
How can this be?
A love so unfailing
Reached down and lifted me
From ashes to beauty
And You invite me in
Doesn't matter where I've been
Your arms are open wide
For You invite me in Doesn't matter who I've been

Your arms are open wide
Pulling me to Your side
And now I'm walking away
From the life I once knew
And running into Your grace
That covers my shame
Again and again, I find my life in You
You invite us in
Doesn't matter where we've been
Your arms are open wide
You invite us in
Doesn't matter who we've been
Your arms are open wide
Pulling us to Your side
Your arms are open wide
