

Heaven Sent

Big Sixes

I thought that you were heaven sent Your eyes were wide and blinked like capitals Hadn't noticed yet but you still talked as if you knew it all You were the colour in my world and the light in my life
the dark in my night and you are forever
Take all the time you need to think
I love you more than I've ever loved since
Take all the time you need to think
I loved you more than I've ever loved since you left I think too much and you don't care for pillow talk or empty promises
You were worth the wait but I'm not sure if you were worth the fall You were the colour in my world and the light in my life
the dark in my night and you are forever
Take all the time you need to think
I love you more than I've ever loved since
Take all the time you need to think
I loved you more than I've ever loved since you left (since you left) I've been a mess (I've been a mess) my eyes don't shine (my eyes don't shine) like they used to shine like they used to Take all the time you need to think
Take all the time you need to think
Take all the time you need to think
Take all the time you need to think
Take all the time you need to think
I love you more than I've ever loved since
Take all the time you need to think
I loved you more than I've ever loved since you left
