They Think Weâ€™re Stupid

Ezra Bell

When I was young I followed blindly
I was oh so scared to go alone
But I've been gone for years and no one has tried to find me
I was up all night listening for the call

I always knew there was something wrong with my love
I always knew there was something wrong with me
Of all the ones who tried to tell me that was crazy
Darling, you're the first one that I've believed

Come lay beside me
And I will keep you safe
There's no shame to say you're scared
When we are all, we are all, we are all, we are all afraid

When you wake up screaming in the night
From all those bad dreams where the pretty creatures bite
And you get your bed and fall right back asleep
For we (?) these fires but there never will be peace

Come lay beside me
And I will keep you safe
There's no shame to say you're scared
When we are all afraid

Look me in the eye, beside me
And we will share the weight
It's no shame to say you're scared
When we are all, we are all, we are all, we are all afraid

La da deedle a deedle da (x8)
Hey!

Lyrics Submitted by Sarah Williams

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/