If I Told You the Truth

Randy Rogers Band

Well, here we go again with the back and forth
Trying to open up the same closed door
Well, I wear my pride, you hide your pain
We both know there's no winning
But we still play the gameIf I told you that I need you
Would you run or stay with me?
Would you steal my heart again and set me free?
If I told you I would never leave you
Would you come unglued?
What would you do if I told you the truth?Some old reasons, same excuses and lies
We've said it all before with the same goodbye
I can't let you leave me, you won't let me go
Before we do this again
There's something you ought to knowIf I told you that I need you
Would you run or stay with me?
Would you steal my heart again and set me free?
If I told you I would never leave you
Would you come unglued?
What would you do if I told you the truth?And I can't take away the past but I can't give up on us
I just hope that all I am will someday be enoughIf I told you that I need you
Would you run or stay with me?
Would you steal my heart again and set me free?
If I told you I would never leave you
Would you come unglued?
What would you do if I told you the truth?
What would you do if I told you the truth?
