My Love

Crash Kings

You caught me on another one
Just to say you've won, my love
You've broke me off another piece
It's just a quick release, my loveI just wanna be the one who finds another way
To keep me on the top of your mind
So you would always say everything is more than fine
I wouldn't change a thingAll the little pieces of the world come together so well
You're taking me home, you're showing me
That all the broken pieces of the world fit together again
When you're taking me home, you're taking me homeYou say some day you'll settle down
In a smaller town, my love
Leave all the hustling behind
For some peace of mind, my loveSo why can't we be happy now and lay this all to rest?
I know we're sick of all the games
And all the stupid tests and if this just keeps going on
I'll wish you all the best, once againAll the little pieces of the world come together so well
You're taking me home, you're showing me
That all the broken pieces of the world fit together again
When you're taking me home and I'll take it all backTo the places where my love is
I take it all back
This time it's for sure
I take it all backTo the places where my love is
I take it all back
This time it's for sure, yeah
