Dying

Osker

I know myself, I know I think
I'm so sick of people and I don't know why
See, I just don't have patience for them
And I really think I can make it on my own liesYou hide words to keep from hurting me
And I would rather know the truth than be happyWhile you're smiling we're all dying
With every day that we go you're just growing old
While you're dying we're all fighting
Every day that we goI know better than to get caught up in Words of boredom of no importance to meWhy do these people keep talking?
When all I wanna do is hear myselfLies, you hide words to keep from hurting me
And I would rather know the truth than be happyWhile you're smiling we're all dying
With every day that we go you're just growing old
While you're dying we're all fighting
Every day that we goThe more I'm awake the more I wanna sleep
What a shame t-to want it that way
But what a shame to be in this
And your life's such a bore
And me, I feel so fucking aliveLies, every breath uttered a self-reassurance
And I wouldn't trust me much if I were you
But you chooseWhile you're smiling we're all dying
With every day that we go you're just growing old
While you're dying we're all fighting
Every day that we go, yeah, just go away, go

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/