A Simple Question

Action Action

Good morning sunshine
From this dead letter day
I suppose I should have seen this
But blindness prevails
An easy game, girl
Just a simple plan
You said you plan to hurt
But that just means I'll hurt you
I'll ask you that age-old question
Who am I to blame this all upon?
Maybe we'll see each other in our next life
Maybe we'll choke on it or maybe we'll just be friends
And I do, for you
Alone again in this room
Until the 15th of June
Adding over all the arguments
We had in vain
If you would ask, girl
I would give it my touch
We're playing tag across the United States
Halfway undone
I'll ask you that age-old question
Who am I to blame this all upon?
Maybe we'll see each other in our next life
Maybe we'll choke on it or maybe we'll just be friends
Just take this feeling
I've asked you a question
And if you see me
Forever a question
