

So Sad

Markku Mattila

You were looking for love in wondering eyes
Remember how people were, when everything went too far in the night
Now we play about life in the colours of changes
And we can't stand here waiting forever
I wish I could recover it
I think You should come with me, girl
So sad, so sad
And Your heart is shattered like the sand in the ground
So sad, so sad
And You carry on just pretending that something might maybe change
It's too easy to say "I love You"
You know those words well
So I wish I could find a horse that's not made of sand
I don't want to hold the icy glass
I know it so well, girl
Oh god I prayed I could write a love song, just to let You know
So sad, so sad
And Your heart is shattered like the sand in the ground
So sad, so sad
And You carry on just pretending that something might maybe change
