How's A Man Supposed To Change?

Blue

Yo, check it out
First verse, drop it
Lord knows I'm gonna make it
To brighter days, I'm on my way
Dreamed before and saw the way that I was misbehaving
Now I'm standing face to face
To my reflection I can see it
My vision's blinded by the pain
('Cause that's how I feel)
My mirror's broken
I've been cursed with seven years of bad luck
Will the sorrow ever change?
So now my soul's in debt, I must regret
I die and live another lonely day
Tell me how a man's supposed to change?
So now my soul's in debt, I must regret
I die and live another lonely day
Tell me how a man's supposed to change?
(How's a man supposed to change? Tell me)
My fear is growing old unhappy
Without my loved ones next to me
Ink on my skin has nearly faded
Incarcerated for my sins
To my reflection I can see it
Vision's blinded by the pain
(That's right, by the pain y'all)
My mirror's broken
I've been cursed with seven years of bad luck
Will the sorrow ever change?
So now my soul's in debt, I must regret
I die and live another lonely day
Tell me how a man's supposed to change?
So now my soul's in debt, I must regret
I die and live another lonely day
Tell me how a man's supposed to change?
How a man's supposed to change?
So now my souls in debt, I must regret
I die and live another lonely day
Tell me how a man's supposed to change?

So now my soul's in debt, I must regret
I die and live another lonely day
Tell me how a man's supposed to change?
How's a man supposed to change y'all?
Tell me, how a man's supposed to change?
Tell me, how a man's supposed to change?
Tell me, how a man's supposed to change?
So now my soul's in debt, I must regret
I die and live another lonely day
Tell me how a man's supposed to change?
So now my soul's in debt, I must regret
