Clipped Wings

Pulling Teeth

You're a big boy now, you're all grown up from the silver spoon to the golden cup out all night now, you're making friends high on life and it never ends what you've got though, it's not enough a rusty spoon and a pinch of dust frame your argument to live the lie press the death that you can't disguise test the waters and try new things our little angel has lost his wings life's so hard when you're on your own but you've cut all ties so there's no going home
