

Accident of Birth

Bruce Dickinson

Journey back to the dark side, back into the womb
Back to where the spirits move like vapor from the tomb
The center of the cyclone, blowing out the sun
Break the shackles of your union to the light I might've had a brother, as I was born, they dragged him under
To the other side of twilight, he's waiting for me now
Nativity was lost on me, I didn't ask, I couldn't see
What created me, what and where and how? Welcome home, it's been too long, we've missed you
Welcome home, we've opened up the gates
Welcome home to your brothers and sisters
Welcome home to an accident of birth Feel our bodies breathing as you try to stop believing
There's nothing you can do about your shadows
You can fight us, you are like us and your body will betray you
Lay down and die like all the others Where are the angels and their wings of freedom?
Jesus had His day off when they pulled you through Welcome home, it's been too long, we've missed you
Welcome home, we've opened up the gates
Welcome home to your brothers and sisters
Welcome home to an accident of birth To an accident of birth Vision's growing dim as the daylight fades away
I'm spinning, twisting, black, well, it's your dying day Welcome home, it's been too long, we've missed you
Welcome home, we've opened up the gates
Welcome home to your brothers and sisters
Welcome home to an accident of birth Welcome home, it's been too long, we've missed you
Welcome home, we've opened up the gates
Welcome home to your brothers and sisters
Welcome home to an accident of birth
