

Now and Then

We Are the Ocean

Hey, there's a side of me that you've not seen before
Please don't think that there is something wrong
I won't cover it up, just give me time
I won't cover it up, just give me time As I start to lose myself
I just need somebody's help Every now and then I fall apart
And you realise I was never perfect from the start
Now you see, who I am
Every now and then I break your heart,
And you realise I was never perfect from the start
Now you see, who I am How can I, tell you everything about this
I'll try but I'm afraid that I might fail,
I won't cover it up, just give me time
I won't cover it up, just give me time
As I start to lose myself
I just need somebody's help Every now and then I fall apart
And you realise I was never perfect from the start
Now you see, who I am
Every now and then I break your heart,
And you realise I was never perfect from the start
Now you see, who I am I've tried a million times, it's proving hard to find,
I just need somebody's help,
Behind closed doors is where, I keep my burdens close,
So you can't see who I am I've tried a million times, it's proving hard to find,
I just need somebody's help,
Behind closed doors is where, I keep my burdens close,
So you can't see who I am
Every now and then I'll fall apart
And you realise I was never perfect from the start
Now you see, who I am
Every now and then I'll break your heart,
And you realise I was never perfect from the start
But do you see who I am?
