Ready, Set, Go

Mason Brothers

Ready, set, go, to the bridge at dawn
We'll build a fire they'll keep warm, then we'll run
Which way will you choose?
The flames upon your shoes
Gravity and water meet below

The sun is rising on us now, I know it
And fear catches wind now, bleeding
Until this morning light the wind is blowing
The bridge beneath us crumbles

The time has come to move or not belong
This bridge has come to move us all along
Looking for some warmth where there is none
Floating on an iceberg in the sun

Our bodies fall devoured in the sea
But our vision floats above this death we see
And which way will you choose?
The flames upon your shoes
Gravity and water meet below

The sun is rising on this mess I know it
And fear catches wind now, bleeding
Until this morning light, the wind is blowing
The bridge beneath us crumbles

The time has come to move or not belong
This bridge has come to move us all along
Looking for some warmth where there is none
Floating on an iceberg in the sun

Lyrics Submitted by nivs

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/