

Too Soon to Call It Love

Dionne Bromfield

It came out of the blue
Like a brand new story, waiting to begin
Like the stars and the moon were counting on me to go rushing in
Now the answer's are all around,
It's all that i can do to keep my feet on the ground
Cause when the tears roll down my face
Only you can make it better
When it rains on my days,
I know you can change the weather
I'm breaking down and there's no one around
Then it's you i'm thinking of
But it's too soon to call it love
And always making me slow,
Taking something one step at a time
When it's too soon to know,
Where it's going just to stand behind a line
When the answer's all around,
No point in letting go of the thing that you have found
Cause when the tears roll down my face,
Only you can make it better
When it rains on my days,
I know you can change the weather
I'm breaking down and there's no one around
Then it's you I'm thinking of,
But it's too soon to call it love
