

So Long Ago

I Am Arrows

We listen to one another thought we don't know why
It made sense when we were together, it made sense to cry
 How we hold out our arms
 Fold them around each others pain
 But in the end we gain nothing
 Oh, forever wondering what could've been
 If you hadn't walked away and both of us leaned
 On our wishes and words, they went unheard
 We weren't heard, heard
 We got hurt, hurt
 Unassisted we learned, it was so long ago
 That our hearts got their turn, in a world they didn't know
 And a battle we'd fight, at a price we couldn't pay
 It was soul that we lost
 But it's too close to say
 So, how does it feel now all the way over there
 Different friends in different places
 We try not to care
 But I won't understand, what breaks these things up
 It was love I was told, but you put a stop
 This isn't love anymore
 This isn't love anymore
 Unassisted we learned, it was so long ago
 That our hearts got their turn, in a world they didn't know
 And a battle we'd fight, at a price we couldn't pay
 It was soul that we lost
 But it's too close to say
 I we were to think about where this would go
 Would we leave it to other hearts, and ask them to show
 If they care?
 How they care?
 Unassisted we learned, it was so long ago
 That our hearts got their turn, in a world they didn't know
 And a battle we'd fight, at a price we couldn't pay
 It was soul that we lost
 But it's too close to say