As I Love My Own

Aaron Freeman

Your smile as it widens on your face
Is like a child running off across the hills
And I love your smile as I love my own
And I love your smileYour hair riding down around your ears
Has never been more beautiful than now
And I love your hair as I love my own
And I love your hairYour body, moving down to mine
Is like the coupling of the pale November clouds
And I love your body as I love my own
And I love your body and it's part of my own
