

Going, Going, Gone

Lee Greenwood

It's over, I left the door unlocked again
But this time someone new walked in
While she was all alone
And he told her that there was much more life to see
Than she would ever see with me
Now she's going, going, gone
It's over, I never thought I'd see this day
When everything would walk away
That I depended on God, he'll hold her
To make sure she don't change her mind
I've lost her all the way this time
She's going, going, gone
I should have paid attention, there were many warning signs
But I just never thought she'd walk away
Here I stand in silence, just an echo of the words
I heard her say
She said, it's over and much too late to change her mind
I've lost her all the way this time
She's going, going, gone
