

Kathleen's Song

The Byrds

When I awake you will be gone, shady tomorrow
I want to go, where will you be?
So I'll stay home letting my hair grow long
And I will be walking in dew
While fire burns summer is gone, winter is sorrow
But time don't mean nothing to me
When only the owls listen to hear my songs
And I will be walking in dew
And I will be waiting for you
Some people say, "Love goes away", not mine
A rose is red for your cheeks, I will borrow
And find a place for you to see
A sash of blue tells me your love is strong
Each day my life, starting anew
And I will be waiting for you
