Goodbye

Cris Cab

Six o'clock and I'm falling down,
And it must be miles on the stereo
She told me that it's over now, pack the bags for Mexico
Oh, I couldn't believe how quickly time has come and gone
Again, again
Searching through the passing clouds and I know it's you I'm looking for,
And I wish one would turn around
And I see the smile that keep me warm,
Always treasure the nights that we have spent under the Moon
Just me & youOh, I'll be standing here on the darkest side,
You just left me here where the shadows hide
So I count the stars, searching for a sign
And I asked myself
What if you & I had never said GOODBYE?!
Ooooh oh goodbye? oooh ohSix o'clock in the morning now, when I'm waking up to catch a flight
I thought I'd get to you somehow
But I forgot to call and didn't just right
See your face to say the things I should've said to you all along!Oh, I'll be standing here on the darkest side,
You just left me here where the shadows hide
So I count the stars, searching for a sign
And I asked myself
What if you & I had never said GOODBYE?!A thousand miles away, yet everyday I run to find you
And bring you close to me, so you can see that you're the one Who gives me everything I'll ever need, you make so complete
I'll give you all of ME
If you don't say GOODBYE,
Ooooh oh goodbye? oooh ohI'll be standing here on the darkest side,
You just left me here where the shadows hide
So I count the stars, searching for a sign
And I asked myself
What if you & I had never said GOODBYE?!
Ooooh oh goodbye? oooh oh
