She'll Hear You

Ben Jelen

The years flash by, today melts to yesterdays memories
Time's holding us tight, I'm looking back to remember
The days we said, we'd never say goodbye
Sometimes I feel like we've been running too far from the truth
You know, I'm tired of hearing "Another day, another time"
All this senseless waiting won't fill these dark empty rooms
Why won't you come home?
And now you're gone, my hands melt to yesterday's melodies
Time's pushing along, still looking back to hold on to
The days we said, we'd never say goodbye, yes, she'll hear you
Sometimes I feel like we've been running too far from the truth
You know, I'm tired of hearing "Another day another time"

All this senseless waiting won't fill these dark empty rooms
You know I hate to say it, but since you've gone I know that Even though I'm feeling low, I guess I'm feeling free
We can live our own existence 'cause I know
These dreams will bring you back to me, ooh to me
Bring you back, bring you back, yes, she'll hear you
Sometimes I feel like we've been running too far from the truth
You know, I'm tired of hearing "Another day, another time"
All this senseless waiting won't fill these dark empty rooms
You know I hate to say it, but since you've gone I know that
...

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/