Betty

Cosmo Jarvis

I was walking down the road one day
And I saw a lonely light,
And I ran all the way home
In the middle of the night.I went down to the old arcade
And I saw your smiling face.
You must be the most boneable girl
In the whole of the human?What's wrong with Betty?
What's wrong with my sweet girl?
What's wrong with Betty?
What's wrong with my?
Sweet?
I got into my beat up car,
And suddenly I saw you.
Yeah, I found myself totally fixated
On everything you do.I followed you round and round and round,
'Til I ran out of gas.
I was checking out my fuel gauge
As I checked out your?What's wrong with Betty?

Sweet?She's a waitress, she waits for a living,
But she ain't happy with the money they're giving.
But she's willing, to make a little money on the side,
Eyes darken, wide, so open up your flies and get inside.
My Fiat Punto awaits.
There ain't a lotta room but the view is great.
And I'll drive you away from Chez Roberto,
I'll pay you twenty quid, main and dessert.Oh darling, you're sweating from your shift
And it drips on my gearstick,
Lipstick lips are pouting.
An now she's fit for a king,
With twenty quid to spare on a queen who's always giving.She's more than willing
To make a living.
No other women act like this
So wait behind the restaurant
If you want the best there is.What's wrong with Betty?
