

Camouflage

Kansas

Deeply buried secrets that you have to hide away
You'll never have the chance to make things right
What hides behind your walls of stone
Are a thousand broken dreams
The games you play must never see the light
Endless days go on and on, losing faith that kept you strong
Hard to feel like you belong
My how your whole world's been shaken
Learning to hide in obscurity
Hoping no one can solve your mystery
Trying to hide the lies your faking
Your world will be shaken to the bone
When your covers blown
Wondering confusion, seeking shelter from the storm
You've been searching for the answer for so long
And in your mind you know it's not a stranger that you chase
Is it pointless now to try to right your wrongs
Endless days go on and on, losing faith that kept you strong
Hard to feel like you belong
My how your whole world's been shaken
Learning to hide in obscurity
Hoping no one can solve your mystery
Trying to hide the lies your faking
Your world will be shaken to the bone
When your covers blown
Behind the mask concealing the true nature of your lies
A reflection that you see but can't disguise
A never ending cycle of false witness and deceit
The truth within you makes you realize
Endless days go on and on, losing faith that kept you strong
Hard to feel like you belong
My how your whole worlds been shaken
Learning to hide in obscurity,
hoping no one can solve your mystery
Trying to hide lie your faking
Your world will be shaken to the bone
When your covers blown
