Count On Me

Sound The Alarm

We spend our down time on phone lines and deep conversation
Waiting on weekends and wishing vacations
You're losing composure, alone on the outside
I'd spare you direction but God knows I've lost mineI hate to admit that I'd love to forget this Leave it behind me and learn to accept that
The most I can give you is word that I'm fine
I'm making my exit, it's only a matter of timeJust count on me to say
Everything that's good is gone, force a smile somehow
All the plans we've made, they're not breaking
If you're not breaking, this can't hold us downBeen my distraction, my center, my lifeline
A short breath of fresh air to make sure I stay high
Never too clever to lend me a kind word
You tell me what you've seen and I'll tell you what I've heardMy keeping quiet is simply a habit
That looks to collapse me as you can imagine
But what doesn't kill us will just make us stronger
So, we'll hold this in for a little bit longerJust count on me to say
Everything that's good is gone, force a smile somehow
All the plans we've made, they're not breaking
If you're not breaking, this can't hold us downIf you fall away, if you fall away, yeah
And if you fall into winter and spring into action
So summer can throw us out
If you fall into winter and spring into action
So summer can throw us outCount on me to say
Everything that's good is gone
Force a smileJust count on me to say
Everything that's good is gone, force a smile somehow
All the plans we've made they're not breaking
If you're not breaking, this can't hold us down
