

Remind Me (Steve James Remix)

Conrad Sewell

Please lay a little longer
Weight is on my shoulders, holding me down
Some days, it can't get much darker
Feel it more than ever
When you're not around When I think about love, you are right beside me
I think about us, you will always find me
When my heart is lost, I know that you'll guide me
I think about all the little things that still remind me These days, reflection's like a stranger
You are so much braver, braver than me
Oh save me, save me from my demons
Teach me to defeat them
And leave me at peace When I think about love, you are right beside me
When I think about us, you will always find me
When my heart is lost, I know that you'll guide me
I think about all the little things that still remind me When I'm living like there's nothing left to lose
When I turn my back on everything I knew
When I settle for the silence in the room
Oh remind me, remind me, remind me
Remind me of you So think about love, and you're right beside me
I think about us, I know that you'll find me
When my heart gets lost, I know that you'll guide me
I think about all the little things that still remind me
I think about all the little things that still remind me
All my life you'll remind me
