I miss you

Jung Yonghwa

When I wake up everyday, I miss you
And it never goes away, I miss you
People smile and while, I take and even laugh
I'm not even half the man they knew without you
When I'm in our bed each night
And I turn out the light oh, how I miss you
Little things reminding me about you
Who will I annoy again, if not you?
In my silent room sometimes I'll close my eyes
And I whisper sweet goodbyes
You'll never hear, Esther dear
Fifty years, Ester and Joe
Tell me how could this be so?
Oh, how I miss you
Was I there when you needed me to be there?
Could you see there wasn't one day

When you weren't my best girl?
Though we both drove each other crazy
I loved all the love you gave me
And you where all that mattered in my world
Everyday I love you more and miss you
And I wish you knew
That through the darkest night
You are still the light
That helps me find my way and I pray
One day we will meet again
And all this emptiness will end
And I will kiss you 'till that day
Though we're apart
I'll hold you close here in my heart
But God, I miss you
