

Depression

Raised Fist

New era smart phone fashion editors turning kids into competitors
The normal world seems to collapse and these fucking rats
Makes no place for any handicaps
Out of the limousine you look so supreme
Photoshop made you look like a dream
Backstage cocaine, amphetamine, the perfect role model for a teen
On the brink of collapse, you people are running laps
Hiding behind your masks, circling like fucking maniacs
On the brink of collapse
Another stream on the computer screen
I see shit that I would want to leave unseen
Looking for a mainstream figurine, close to the edge, pc and you live clean
Newborn poser, you were supposed to stay true to the scene
Now you make a living out of children with low self esteem
On the brink of collapse, you people are running laps
Hiding behind your masks, circling like fucking maniacs
On the brink of collapse
We should have known better
We should have known better
Yees
We should have known better
We should have known better...
On the brink of collapse, you people are running laps
Hiding behind your masks, circling like fucking maniacs
On the brink of collapse
On the brink of collapse, you people are running laps
Hiding behind your masks, circling like fucking maniacs
On the brink of collapse

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>