Here Again (Instrumental)

Approaching Nirvana

She cries, she crumples up all the papers
All the meetings, all the records of the things she had paid for
And tries, to make herself feel better
But the rhythm of her mind is making her more nervous
"Why does my heart work so loud?"
Draws her curtains
And takes a look around[And right now I just need to forget
So I don't feel this fire in my chest
'Cause I'll hold this close to me
I don't fear the end
And as I move I wonder
How am I here again?]How am I here again?She cries, and all the beauty that makes her
All the feelings, all the tragedies, and people that failed her
And tries, to make herself feel better
But the rhythm of her mind is coming out to get her
"Why does my heart work so loud?"
Draws her curtains
And takes a look around[And right now I just need to forget
So I don't feel this fire in my chest
'Cause I'll hold this close to me
I don't fear the end
And as I move I wonder
How am I here again?]I don't fear the end
And as I move I wonder
How am I here again?

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/