

Life On Standby

Hawthorne Heights

The distance and my heart's to sand
Flowing through the hourglass
Time to let go, of all we know
And break our hearts in stride I need you now more like yesterday
The last day I could see you smile
For the last time, turn out the lights
My life on standby So standby and watch
This fall away and fall apart Just say that it's over
It's over and she's gone, now she's gone
"Don't worry", he said
And she's not coming home, she's not coming home
It's over and she's gone The distance and my heart's
To sand flowing through the hourglass
I fall to pieces, I can't let go
Of all the times I never said goodbye Just say that it's over
It's over and she's gone, now she's gone
"Don't worry", he said
And she's not coming home, she's not coming home
It's over and she's gone Wake up
Wake up
Wake up Wake up, now it's over, just tell me it's okay to die
Wake up, now it's over, just tell me it's okay to die
Wake up, now it's over, just tell me it's okay to die
Wake up, now it's over, just tell me it's okay to die
