

The Last Scene

Sinch

Something wrong out of lines to keep the rats distracted
A hollow shell, habit trail, symptoms of getting older
But I'm not searching for the answers
I know there are no answers here and I'm letting it go
And on we roll, through the stars, slowly we're learning
We've all been patrons for too long, so turn your head look away
And Hollywood's burning, but I've got a part in the last scene
They saved it just for me, saved it just for me
A shot rings out but no one cares citizens keep their distance
While the politics of self control, massage our cruel temptations
But I'm not searching for redemption I know
I'm lost in confusion here and I'm letting it go
And on we roll through the stars, slowly we're learning
We've all been patient for too long, so turn your heads
Look away and Hollywood's burning, but I've got a part in the last scene

They saved it just for me
How's it my heart couldn't stand up to your Gods
Couldn't reach enlightenment, couldn't touch the sky
Why have we got this all wrong
White and blue collar clones, we're hardly alone
When we walk the same and talk the same
And I would give you anything, but you're asking too much from me
And carelessly you're slowly hailing to the thieves
Of our system down, no one made a sound
And on it rolls the title track, slowly we're learning
We've all been patient for too long, so turn your heads look away
And Washington's burning, but I've got a part in the Yeah, I've got a part in the last scene, the last scene
