How It Feels

Duncan Sheik

Wind so restless, yearning breathless
Sons and daughters sometimes they do meet
I remember one September
How I felt a strange late summer heat
Distant oceans, wild notions
When you feel the touch of one you love
But they leave you or deceive you
All that you can do is cry to heaven above just like us, just like us
You'll learn how it feels
Hearts break and never heal

Secret places, stolen gazes, soft exchanges of you ever dream
It will change you how it pains you when it's cold
And all that you can do is plead, oh take heed, how we need
Can't you see how we need?
You'll learn how it feels
Hearts break and never heal
Tell us how it feels
Hearts break and never heal
Remember September and how it feels
