

Paris (Louis The Child Remix)

Magic Man

Jetlag, been in a state of disaster
Ever since I left you the last time
I saw you just fade away Now I get lost, tracing my steps back
It cost nearly everything that
I'm not ready to lose today No I'm not ready to lose everything I know, I'm letting go of Paris, you know I held on too much
I left you at the station, I put you in my past
And now darling, all that shit's behind us
You never have to wonder, you never have to ask You never have to Drink up every last drop and Shake off the feeling that you're watching me now
I should have just told the truth But now sweetheart, listen to the way I
Cannot forget a single day I
Spent rolling all around the room with you It's just a fantasy, taking over like a disease
Pull me out of this I can't breath
It's burning through my chest A fantasy, taking over like a disease
Pull me out of this I can't breath
I just need a rest from Paris, you know I held on too much
I left you at the station, I put you in my past
And now darling, all that shit's behind us
You never have to wonder, you never have to ask You never have to It's just a fantasy, taking over like a disease
Pull me out of this I can't breath
It's burning through my chest A fantasy, taking over like a disease
Pull me out of this I can't breath
Oh I just need a rest No I'm not ready to lose you again Oh Paris, you know I held on too much
I left you at the station, I put you in my past
And now darling, all that shit's behind us
You never have to wonder, you never have to ask You never have to

Songwriters

Alexander Caplow, Samuel Vanderhoop Lee Published by

Lyrics Â© Universal Music Publishing Group Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>