A Day, a Death, a Dream

The Persevering Promise

WE MARK TODAY AS THE DAY OF THE LOST
YOUR LIFEâ€™S NOT IN VEIN, YOU ARE NOT FORGOT
OF ALL OF MY FRIENDS, YOU WERE THE FIRST
ONE HORRIBLE SCENE, SO STAGED AND REHEARSED
ILL NEVER FORGET THE STAGE PAINTED WHITE
COLD LONELY WINDS ECHEOED ALL THROUGH THE NIGHT
TREMORING SIRENS SHED TEARS NO GOODBYEâ€™S
YOU LEFT ME HERE JUST ASKING WHY? WHY OH WHY!?

What were you thinking?
Was my life not worth enough?
Was there nothing I could do?
Can I be dreaming?
Was the strife not worth the rush?
Did the grave outweigh the crutch?
I stand believing, that thereâ€™s more to life than pain.
A faded picture A FADED PICTURE,
In a broken frame IN A BROKEN FRAME
I found a meaning, of why we shouldnâ€™t run in fear
And why we seem to lack the spine to shed a tear

If you feel the need to die, before you kick the chair
Remember your friendsâ€™ cuz I promise they care!
If you feel the need to end your life
TAKE A SECOND ASIDE, CHOOSE TO FACE THE FIGHT
Because I promise you kid that your friends would die for you

This life is certain, the paths weâ€™ve walked before
Help us pick ourselves back off the floor
And curtains, will fall as we take our bow
The only fight that weâ€™re facing now,
Is how do I forgive myself,
For letting you die? Every single night I lie awake screaming â€œwhy oh whyâ€•.
WHY OH WHY!?
So much for silent as the grave
And forget what you havenâ€™t forgave
Its been 12 years and I still hear you calling my name!

If you feel the need to die, before you kick the chair
Remember your friendsâ€™ cuz I promise they care!

If you feel the need to end your life
TAKE A SECOND ASIDE, CHOOSE TO FACE THE FIGHT
Because I promise you kid that your friends would die for you

facebook.com/theperseveringpromiseband

Lyrics submitted by Jesse Barton.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/