

Man the Change

Hot Water Music

connections with systems belly up before i'm up and running scratching off what leaves me in the dirt ready and willing with hands that i can't stop killing i still feel left down in the dirt i'll run i'm up now but still weighed down completions don't always come easy when you've gathered much to much to move i've got to start the leveling out my anger side for side i've got to start with one reach at a time and i'll roll on through the remnants of what i've come to know roll on through and find what we can by sifting through the ashes it's time to find the exits

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>