

Lavender

Copeland

i kiss you on a mountain, a hillside in the sun you close your eyes, slept longer you're the one that i needed all along but i can't feel you now and in the corner of my heart i still hold you close prop your head up and pull you to your toes when you feel you've fallen down

but i can't feel you now

we've run through the tall grass, ever stumbling and never could have known it wouldn't be this way the rest here and now i cant go on when all our foolish words have fallen in the way all in the way it's all in the way
when all our foolish words have fallen in the way and this time, it's drifting by it's all too much to fight through all our tears i wake alone and i come undone 'cause i can almost feel your waking eyes searching for mine, fighting all your tears now i feel you like sunlight now i feel you've been burned and i never sleep cause i cant see into your night and now that i see you i can't close my eyes and if my voice happens to fall on your ears i don't know what would happen here if this song falls on your ears i don't know what would happen here

---

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>