

Built to Spill

Distopian Dream Girl

built to spill you are pleased precariously momentarily chilled temporarily filled you will spill until lower expectations you will because at the time it seemed built to spill like an acceptable deal you feel you feel this is how you'll always feel it's no big deal I'm ashamed of you my friend you feel like you are on the verge of something real would you please would you please I'm to blame for this my friend on a role and built to spill would you please built to spill would you please you will carry out your function then occasionally filled you will you will come alive to something real then realize you're built to spill this is how you'll always feel it's no big deal

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>