The Game

Meredith O'Connor

why did they chose you why cant you be strong why did they doubt you when you werent wrong why do some people have more of a say sticks stones and broken bones will get them there way

dm g c am dm e am a cuz everyone knows that the loser gets picked on and everyone wants to join in on their game cuz nobody wants to stand up for the loser till they saw how strong the loser became dm g c am dm e a
become the leader of america, own every city on the ground, don't give up on the way if you get pushed around, and when they start to cause you pain, and if someone breaks your heart, remember that the strongest were challenged from the start, am g f g am g f a you feel so alone, on your own your so scared. and i know you can't tell, but we all have been there, when you want to move on and they make it so hard, you don't think ill be okay, when they broke you're heart

dm g c am dm e am a
one day you'll learn that you weren't so wrong, this whole time you just let them take you along, the day you ignore what they all think they see is the day you'll become what you're destined to be,
dm g c am dm e a
become the leader of america, own every city on the ground, don't give up on the way if you get pushed around, and when they start to cause you pain, and if someone breaks your heart, remember that the strongest were challenged from the start.

and don't let em make you cold, don't let the child in you have to grow old, don't let anyone take away your heart of gold, and ignore who ever said that you aren't beautiful.

Lyrics Submitted by Hailey

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/