Where Have I Been Going?

Young Rebel Set

Am I here amongst friends
On those I depend
To tell me when I have gone too far?
Am I reckless without cause
To drunk to heed laws
That were put there to try and protect me?Now there's a fine, fine line
Between your reality and mine
You call it ridiculous, I call it sublime
Oh, please tell me where have I been going?Now the fog it had passed
And I'm sober at last
Now where was that world I found so engaging?
Through that everlasting swirl
Of heroin and girls
And the never ending night turned into morning
Well mow there's a fine, fine line
Between all reality and mine
You call it disastrous, I call it divine
Oh, Please tell me where have I been going?So, please make sure he learns
From all of my mistakes and my wrong turns
I lost my direction and I let my faith burn
Oh, please make sure he won't come where I am going?So from the fires of hell
The story I must tell
To make sure that he gets direction
And don't take the wrong turn
At the cross roads and burn
In the devil's fire for affectionI'm walking a fine, fine line
Between your reality and mine
You call it catastrophe, I call it all mine
Oh, please tell me where have I been going?
So, please make sure he learns
From all of my mistakes and my wrong turns
I lost my direction and I let my faith burn
Oh, please make sure he won't come where I am
Please, make sure he learns
From all of my mistakes and my wrong turns
I lost my direction and I let m faith burn
Oh, please make sure he won't come where I amOh, please make sure he won't come where I am going

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/