

I Know You

Rich Robinson

On the seat of disarray you've found you have no calling
Watch another slip away escape from your constant crawlin'
There are two entwined this way they want a sense of calming They're pushed and shoved into the waves of a giant bending conscience I know you, you've got a penchant for fallin'
You grabbed my neck and threw me into the cauldron
It turned me around
Stopped double guessing my whole life now Leaving on a midnight train I watch you getting smaller
Driving in the faster lane removes you from my knowledge
Dare I say I wish you well but never reacquaint myself
To the task involved in this broken down relationship I know you, you've got a penchant for fallin'
You grabbed my neck and threw me into the cauldron
It turned me around
Stopped double guessing my whole life now I know you, you've got a penchant for fallin'
You grabbed my neck and threw me into the cauldron
I know you, you've got a penchant for fallin'
You grabbed my neck and threw me into the cauldron
It turned me around
Stopped double guessing my whole life now

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>