

Confined

Disonata

That night I never came home
Wandering souls captured my thoughts
 Emptiness filled my mind
 Urgency spoke her lies
In the confines of these gray walls
 I watched them move together
Taking me places I cannot remember, remember
We have been poured out into this loveless bride
 How quickly I forget
 That this is meaningless?
 How quickly I forget
 That this is meaningless?
 In a world passing
 Through my fingers
 I still chase the wind
 How quickly I forget
 That this is meaningless?
 How quickly I forget
 That this is meaningless?
 What have
 I learned from yesterday?
 What have
 I learned from yesterday?
