Photograph

Diane Birch

I put a photograph inside the frame of my heart
Forever you'll be the better half watching the rest fall apart
Nothing's goin' change the look on my face
You'll see me spending the rest of my daysWaving tomorrow goodbye, a tear in my eye
Nothing can bring back that feeling
Go on fade out the stars in my sky, I'm wondering why
No one can save me, the same way you doI put a broken dream next to the memory of you
And forever you'll be together till fate brings you somebody new
And I can't erase the look on your face
Guess I'll be spending the rest of my daysWaving tomorrow goodbye, a tear in my eye
Nothing can bring back that feeling
Go on fade out the stars in my sky, I'm wondering why
No one can save me, the same way you doWaving tomorrow goodbye, a tear in my eye
Nothing can bring back that feeling, oh no
Fade out the stars in my sky, I'm wondering why
No one can save me, the same way you doLittle light, little light
Oh, we're gonna make it right
Little light, little light
You know we're gonna make it rightLittle light, little light
Oh, we're gonna make it right
Little light, little light
You know we're gonna make it rightLittle light, little light
Oh, we're gonna make it right
Little light, little light
You know we're gonna make it rightLittle light, little light
Oh, we're gonna make it right
Little light, little light
You know we're gonna make it rightLittle light, little light
Oh, we're gonna make it right
Little light, little light
You know we're gonna make it rightLittle light, little light
Oh, we're gonna make it right
Little light, little light
You know we're gonna make it right
