

Silence of Your Head

Dare

You stand alone in the darkness of your room
You've seen it all before, my friend
And here you are once more on your own
You've cast your stone and you've watched the circles fade away
You've seen your life go cold
The memories you still hold
They lay you down to die
In your eyes your spirit can't hide
In the silence of your head
In the darkness of your empty room, my baby
When you can't carry on
And the feeling is gone
Well there's so much more
You tear away at the pages of your life
You've seen it all too soon you gazed upon the moon
And here you are once more
In my eyes your spirit still flies
In the silence of your head
In the darkness of your empty room, my baby
When you can't carry on
And the feeling is gone
Well there's so much more
There's so much more tonight
You stand alone in the darkness of your room
You've seen it all before, my friend
And here you are once more
On your own
In the silence of your head
In the darkness of your empty room, my baby
When you can't carry on
And the feeling is gone
Well there's so much more
There's so much more tonight
In the silence of your head
In the darkness of your empty room, my baby
When you can't carry on
And the feeling is gone
Well there's so much more
There's so much more tonight
Well there's so much more
There's so much more tonight

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>