We Come Together

Newsboys

Waiting, waiting for apologies
We're waiting, we're both expecting sympathies
Another hour is gone
We sulk and carry on so stubborn-heartedAnd we're waiting, we're marking secret borders now
And we're waiting, we're in our separate corners now
We wait for night to fall
We can't even recall what got this startedNow is the time and here is the place
'Cause we lose these hours casting blame
When we should be saying grace
We can find a better way, we can stand on a common ground
We can work this out between us before the sun goes down
We come togetherWaiting, we don't know what we're trying to prove
But we're waiting until the other makes a move
We stick to our facades
We only speak in nods and sullen glancesAnd we're waiting, our shadows just get longer now
But all my love is both I'm feeling longer now
We need to start again
Before this day has stolen all our chancesNow is the time and here is the place
'Cause we lose these hours casting blame
When we should be saying grace
We can find a better way, we can stand on a common ground
We can work this out between us before the sun goes down
We come togetherNow is the time and here is the place
'Cause we lose these hours casting blame
When we should be saying grace
We can find a better way, we can stand on a common ground
We can work this out between us before the sun goes downNow is the time and here is the place
'Cause we lose these hours casting blame
When we should be saying grace
We can find a better way, we can stand on a common ground
We can work this out between us before the sun goes downNow is the time and here is the place
'Cause we lose these hours casting blame
When we should be saying grace
We can find a better way, we can stand on a common ground
We can work this out between us before the sun goes downNow is the time and here is the place
'Cause we lose these hours casting blame
When we should be saying grace
We can find a better way, we can stand on a common ground
We can work this out between us before the sun goes down
