Sleepers

Saosin

What happened to us all? Have we slept through it? Taking hits off the surfaceIt's too hard to swallow When their judgments are concentrated On everything they knowWas it all enough? (No fair) Or did it wake you up From your sleeping? I've overheard it once This has gone on before It's too one and the same When you're accounted for We seem so far away from These things we used to know We seem so far away from Everything we are Everyone that moves around me They're saying nothing That makes the fight a blurSay we're something That no one wanted to hear They know that everything is wrongWas it all enough? (No fair)

Or did it wake you up
From your sleeping?I've overheard it once
This has gone on before
It's too one and the same
When you're accounted forWe seem so far away from
These things we used to know
We seem so far away from
Everything we areAll we are is golden
This won't mean a thing
All we are is golden
This won't mean a thing
