Groundbreaking

Is this how it ends

we lost ourselves to the violence and the riots

now there's nothing left.

I once thought I could change something,

I once thought maybe I could make a difference instead I became as corrupted and soulless as the ones I was trying to defeat.

We have to start over,

it's not over we'll come back to our city we can rebuild it, and accept the consequences of our actions, we have justice and prosperity
