

Resolve

Omission

Can you feel the tension?
Have you heard the voices of the lost?
    Churning up the fire
    To reach the dark side of you
    When the walls decide to close in
    And the floor disappears beneath you
    Just hang on to our last words and
        Resolve, resolve
        Touch your hands to water
        Place them on the fire
    Have faith, the flame will lose it's strength
        Just touch your hands to water
        Hold your breath for one more second
        Soak the torch in kerosene
        And light the match and
        Watch as it all closes in
        Can you feel the tension
    Can you hear the voices of the lost?
    Just hang out to our last words and
        Resolve, resolve
    Our lives will hang on the words you have spoken
    And we will wait for our God to return
        Lift your hands to the heaven
    Let your hard heart be encased in flames
        Touch your hands to water
        Place them on the fire
    Have faith, the flame will lose it's strength
        Just touch your hands to water
    Our lives will hang on the words you have spoken
    And we will wait for our God to return
        Lift your hands to the heaven
        Let your hard heart be encased
