Living In The Afterlife

Eric Hutchinson

Life gets lost inside itself
Flash back now as someone else
Playback your life in the blink of an eye
Is this what you were supposed to be like
Take a picture
Take a picture of yourself

And say good-bye to the old you
Now you're living in the afterlife
Say good-bye to the old you
Now you're living in the afterlife
You can try if you want to
But the memory will not survive
Now you're living you're living
You're living in the afterlife

Rip yourself out of the blur
See if you miss who you were
Life's meant for living so might as well try
Plug in to the action and electrify

You are taking a picture of right now
So you can remember yourself
Once you're somebody else
And you can't afford your youth
And all the time you thought you were controlling Trying your best to hold on
You were already gone
And now you're living the truth
