Metropolitan

209

Whos the one to blame got the light on Thinking we dont need to spend all this time on Fussin and fighting Baby Im hurting for this dream believing in life but it aint what it seems
And if I fall let me fall its my destiny
I see it in my heart but Im trying to find the rest of me
Music is like sex to me I love its intensity Im wrapped around this world but this cities got the best of meTired Circling the floor,
You went back, youre not coming back for more. Were alright.
Dont blame me, just dont blame me.
Don't blame me, just don't blame me.Times are getting different were growing apart You said you loved who I was never knowing my heart.
But deep inside I could tell it was getting too hard.
Feelings turn into verbs that only got you so far and..Its the bar that took advantage of this s--- that I cant manage
And I feel my brains been damaged from this drug that Ive been handed I try to understand it but you can barely stand me.
I guess that's why you up & left never coming back, don't blame me.
Tired Circling the floor,
You went back, youre not coming back for more. Were alright.
Dont blame me, just dont blame me.
Don't blame me, just don't blame me.This City is taking everything away

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/