

Witness To Your Life

Lori McKenna

Someone was cryin and the bells rang
Then I dont remember a thing
You were talkin but the words came
From somebody elseSomeone said kiss her and so you did
I was smilin like a little kid
You kissed my teeth and then we both hid
Inside each others armsAll you really need is someone to be here
Someone wholl never let you disappear
And I will be that witness to your lifeThis maybe just a softer place to fall
But somebody will answer when you call
And I will be that witness to your lifeYou got that job and join the union
Fought every urge, I told you to run
Stared down the barrel of an empty gun
And wandered a bitStopped listenin to all your friends
They think this is where life begins and ends
No one reaches, no one transcends
They just learn to live with itAll you really need is someone to be here
Someone wholl never let you disappear
And I will be that witness to your lifeYou should never have to be alone
Someone will always call you home
And I will be that witness to your lifeAll you really need is someone to be here
Someone wholl never let you disappear
And I will be that witness to your life
Baby, I will be that witness to your lifeUp the road, your car comes into view
And from a furlong I just smile at you
Another day I thank the Lord that you
Took the right road home

Songwriters

Lori Mc KennaPublished by

MELANIE HOWARD MUSIC INC. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>