

A Little Bit Lonesome

Kasey Chambers

Like a little bit lonesome, I'm a little bit blue
I can't stop cryin' since I lost you
There's a pain in my heart like a lightenin' bolt
I'm a little bit lonesome it's all your fault Well everytime I wake up
I got you rollin' in my head
Your eyes are lookin' at me
But they're seein' her instead I've got a big fat broken heart with a pain
Sharper than a steel-plated knife
Well thanks to you these lonely blues
Are the best things in my life Well I'm a little bit lonesome, I'm a little bit blue
I can't stop cryin' since I lost you
There's a pain in my heart like a lightenin' bolt
I'm a little bit lonesome it's all your fault Well the last time that I saw you
She had hold of your hand
You waved across the street at me
So I turned away and ran When I got home I got a honkytonk song
I played it 'til my eyes went red
Well, I grabbed a glass I said, "Kiss my ass
I'm gonna drink you out of my head" Well, I'm a little bit lonesome, I'm a little bit blue
I can't stop cryin' since I lost you
There's a pain in my heart like a lightenin' bolt
I'm a little bit lonesome it's all your fault
Well I'm a little bit lonesome it's all your fault
